Change is one of the irresistible laws of nature, and fortunately the change is almost invariably for the better. As a cathartic and liver pill they are almost perfect. For sale by Geo. C. Thaxter.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays the pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

THE STATE FAIR.

Gossiping Letter From Our Roving Correspondent.

A GREAT JOKE ON MESSRS. GUION, SWEENEY, CIRCE AND PAYCRAFT.

Incidents of Crowded Hotel Life at the Riverside.

RENO, October 1st.

TO THE MORNING APPEAL.—The State Fair opened yesterday in rather better shape than usual, with good racing and attendance. I cannot recollect much about the races except that the nags I ventured small amounts of Carson dollars on invariably came in late.

I have always noticed at the Reno races that horses on which I place my money seem weighted down with the responsibility and lag behind.

A horse that can't carry the editorial weight that I put on it under those circumstances must have some sort of hereditary weakness of the back. The auction sale brought out about thirteen head of stock and the prices realized were small. Much better was done by stockmen at private sales.

LIKELY TO BE SLOW.

Speaking of races I can scarcely refrain from mentioning rather a funny incident which caused much amusement in Reno last evening. Dr. Guion, Sweeney, Raycraft and Circe made up a trotting race and Guion went round to the Committee rooms to enter the four horses. He concluded it would be a good idea to enter them under assumed names, something that would sound high on the Reno turf. The other three assented and left it all in his hands. About an hour afterwards they went down to the pool rooms to back their nags and when the bidding began, the sports were all puzzled at the new names, as they did not represent horses that they were familiar with and there was a good deal of talk and speculation, but it was not that sort of speculation likely to make pool-sellers rich.

"Why don't some of you fellows who own these horses back 'em," shouted the pool man. The four owners all stood there as mystified as the rest, for it turned out that after Dr. Guion had entered the horses, he forgot their names, and the other three were ashamed to go back and acknowledge to the Association that they didn't know their own horses names, so they got out of it the best way they could and began buying pools at all hazards.

In the morning they investigated the matter and each man discovered he had been backing the other fellow's horse. This is what makes me think that we will have a slow race today in the trotting if the owners drive.

PLAYING A COMBINATION.

The Riverside Hotel was full and Chamberlain placed me on a cot in the parlor, along with some people from Verdi, Truckee and elsewhere.

About three o'clock I was aware that some one was wandering aimlessly about the room and mumbled about matches. After he had stumbled over some center tables and a few cots, the sleepers began to inquire what the devil, etc., he wanted. "I'm certain I'm playing the right combination," he kept saying.

"Six is the number, and I can't lose."

I recognized the voice and getting up, lit the gas and found an old Comstock sharp considerably loaded, and insisting that he didn't propose to pay Fair rates for a room and have a lot of duffers sleep in it.

He said if the room was not cleared in two minutes, he would begin to throw the crowd out, and when he began fumbling for a gun, several people manifested a disposition to get up and dress.

I spoke to the man who seemed glad to find some one he knew, and he explained by saying that he had room No. 6, and was willing to do the fair thing by a "steerer," who would put him on to the combination.

I went up stairs with him and we wandered round a spell striking matches and hunting for Room 6, which when found was the wrong room, of course.

"I tell you that 6 is the combination, either six or sixteen, or twenty-six. It had a six in sure."

After fifteen minutes spent in trying to get the map in wrong rooms and listening to profanity equally wrong, a bright idea struck me and I turned to Room 9. Sure enough that was the place and I got him to bed. This struck me as a happy piece of detective work, for a man at that hour in the morning, dress as I was.

I would like to forward a picture of the way I looked, but it would, I fear, tax the capacities of the stereotyping department. When I got back to the parlor, the people who occupied the cots, all agreed that my prompt action had saved their lives. I encouraged them in the idea, and then took eight subscriptions for the yearly APPEAL on the spot and gave them chances in the premium thoroughbred Holstein.

I have just arranged with Chamberlain to put in a new crowd tonight, and my friend the sport has promised to call again and flourish a six-shooter under everybody's nose before he consents to leave, at my request.

There is considerable business down here, but you must catch it on the jump. During the Fair, the town is full of strangers, who have swarmed in from all parts of the earth. The new influx gives Reno a live, bustling look, and everybody is making money.

Hotel keepers chain their combs and brushes to the wall, but even that don't help matters much, as most of the brushes are already gone.

This morning came the news that the promoter Charlie Stoddard had died of heart disease in Washington. Dispite Charlie's roundness of figure, he was a schemer and strategist equal to any of Shakespeare's lean men. He lived for years by his wits, and his familiar smile will be missed in the lobby of the Capital in succeeding legislatures. With him the grand philanthropic scheme of selling Bowers' Mansion to the State for $50,000, as a refuge for Maimed and Indigent Miners, dies I fear forever. He was a good fellow withal. Peace to his ashes and cinch bills.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, there was a fine stock parade. About 100 head of horses and 50 head of thoroughbred cattle were in line.

The cattle line was headed by Marsden's crack head of Durhams, fresh from the victory of having cleaned up the sweepstakes at the California State Fair. The leader of the herd was the most magnificent specimen of a bull that ever trod the soil of this Coast.

He was of a rich mahogany color and his back level as a billiard table, seemed a good place for a children's play ground.

There were nine head in line; their polished horns glistening in sun, walking with the precision of trained soldiers. There were other fine Shorthorns in line, but none quite showed the fine breeding and care of Marsden's.

Next came the Holsteins headed by Saratoga the APPEAL's entry, including Cossette, the premium subscription heifer, which the Reno people say they will capture when the drawing takes place.

Gulling's cattle and those of Oroville Sessions, followed by Governor Stevenson's splendid herd of Jerseys, came next.

Carson really had more thoroughbred cattle in line than any single town. The curiosity of the parade was a shaggy long-haired lot of Highland Scotch Cattle, which looked more like buffaloes than anything. They gnaw moss off trees and rocks and will live where other cattle will starve.

There were about 100 thoroughbred horses in line, runners, trotters, draft stallions and roadsters. They were the sleekist, cleanest lot ever exhibited in Reno and show how the strains are improving every year.

THE CARSON TROT.

The event of the day was the trotting race between Gibber, Snow Slide and Julian, entered by Sweeney, Raycraft and Dr. Guion, and Ordway entered by Senator Emmitt of Washoe and owned by McInnis of Carson. It was three in five for $250.

Gibber led at the turn, and although closely pressed several times and thrown off his feet, Sweeney got him down quickly and captured the heat in 2:53, Gibber coming in at an easy gait.

Second heat.—Sweeney kept the front to the quarter, when Guion's horse crept ahead, and Gibber went to pieces badly dropping to fourth. The finish was very close. Julian, driven by Guion, won by half a length, Raycraft's horse second Time 2:54.

Third heat.—Guion's horse won at the half, when Snow Slide colared and passed him, All broke on the home stretch except Snow Slide, who won the heat.

Snow Slide finally won the race; best time 2:52.

LOCAL JOYS.

V. B. Cross has been appointed gardener at the State Capitol.

The Capitol Band rendered some fine music in the plaza last evening.

Several citizens have expressed a willingness to contribute to a purse with which to buy prizes for a bicycle contest at the District Fair.

The APPEAL refers its readers to a communication on the second page which speaks for itself, and hereby tenders its columns to any further correspondence on the subject.

The State Fair Directors have refused to put up any prizes for a bicycle tournament, and consequently there will be no wheel races. It is now in order for the Ormsby Fair Directors to offer a suitable prize and have the mile race for the State championship at the District Fair track.

NO EXTRA CHARGE.—By reference to the announcement of the one night engagement of Margaret Mather and her company of talented players, published on the second page of the APPEAL it will be seen that notwithstanding the expense of bringing the most noted actress of the age to an interior town, out of the line of the main road, the price of admission is at the regular rates. The active demand for reserved seats indicates that Miss Mather will have a reception worthy of her fame on next Friday evening.

YESTERDAY'S RACES.—The seven eighths of a mile dash was won by G. W. in 1:33½. Hotspur got away with the mile dash in 1:45½, beating Nerva by a head. Applause won the dash of five-eighths of a mile in 1:03½. Paikiller second. The Ladies' Tournament will come off today, and there will also be two pacing races and a trot in the 2:35 class.

What on Earth

Is the reason people will not, cannot, or do not see any difference in cheap nos trumps put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER & BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work, will cost you nothing. W. H. Chedic, Druggist

MILLINERY.—A casual glance at Miss Lohman's stock of head dress for Misses and Ladies will convince anyone that she has styles and novelties enough to suit the most fastidious. sep27,1w
